CHILDREN
MATTER

For 39 years, PCCY has been the most trusted child advocacy organization in the region because of our proven track record of results, like this year's enactment of Philadelphia's new lead law, the most protective lead law in the nation.

LEAD VICTORY

Define the Problem and Solution

For nearly 20 years, we've heard harrowing accounts from parents of how their children were irrevocably harmed from toxic lead poisoning in their own homes. The investigation into the issue began and really never ended. This year, we released two groundbreaking reports with practical solutions to end childhood lead poisoning.

Answer Immediate Needs

When we started this work, public officials were slow to act. Yet children were being poisoned and parents were desperate for immediate help. PCCY purchased HEPA vacuum cleaners and created a guide for parents on how to remediate their apartments themselves. We showed the government how to respond and they did. Then, we shifted to making unimpeachable case policy reforms to stop the poisoning in the first place.

Build Consensus

We know there is strength in numbers. That's why we built a coalition of landlords, painters, remediators, parents, doctors, educators and average citizens to amplify our efforts. Our coalition grew from 13 allies in 2011 to 40 major players in 2017 all united behind our call for a new Philadelphia lead law, now hailed as the benchmark for jurisdictions across the country.

Speak Truth to Power

To stop the poisoning of more than 2,000 children in Philadelphia alone, we coordinated countless meetings with lawmakers and orchestrated high-profile media events that forced the crisis into the spotlight and on the table for action. Fortunately, for children, we take no government funds so we can be a fearless voice for them. In 2019, our independence enabled children to win and the scourge of lead poisoning may finally be put to rest.

FIGHTING FOR KIDS

Define the Problem and Solution

Underwater Reports

Our latest series of five reports stunned Southeast PA when they revealed tens of thousands of families earning as much as $75k a year are struggling to make ends meet due to the high costs of basics such as child care.

Game Plan

Titans of our region's industries hailed our report about the undue burden of a neglected public education system that graduates students without the skills they need to enter the workforce.

Infant Toddler Care

PCCY released a report on the dearth of infant/toddler care slots and a playbook for how the Commonwealth can support working families and strengthen the economy.

Answer Immediate Needs

Give Kids A Smile Week

This was our 16th year, bringing the total number of children we served to 5,000 at our annual week of free dental care! We saw more than 600 children just this year.

Give Kids Sight Day

We provided 1,000 children with free vision care this year—and, boy, were they glad to see us!

Child Helpline

More than 1,000 children received better health care because we connected them to free health insurance or resolved complicated health insurance barriers.

STEMCraft

Over 700 future scientists had a blast at our Minecraft-themed gaming event designed to immerse students in a wholly unique STEM experience.

Build Consensus

Start Strong PA

PCCY co-founded a new coalition to fight for increased funding and access to high quality infant/toddler care. We launched with 51 local childcare providers and 150 individual supporters.

School Funding

PCCY co-founded PA Schools Work, a statewide coalition of 30 organizations working to take the fight to fund public education to the next level. We organized two local summits on fair education funding attended by hundreds of parents, educators and activists who demanded more state funding for public schools. This paved the way for $260 million in new state funds for schools this year.

Speak Truth to Power

High Quality Pre-K

Armed with the case for Pre-K and our Underwater Reports, 110 advocates traveled to Harrisburg with PCCY for 162 meetings with legislators and their staff to make the case for more state funding for affordable high quality pre-K and our demand was met - $30 million more for pre-K this year alone.

Child Welfare

This year we redoubled our efforts to expose the harm to children in foster care and juvenile detention facilities, all of whom battle terrible odds for good lifetime outcomes. We coordinated powerful Council testimonies from children with harrowing experiences and worked with city officials for better educational and behavioral health supports, as well as better living conditions. PCCY's call for sweeping changes to heal, not harm these children, are now underway.
